Everyone living in the city where I was a schoolboy at that time knew, that at the very end of the MW dial on the household radios

(around 1600 kc) an unknown station pops up time to time. Day or night, young voices read numbers in groups, sometimes in quick succession, other times in slow pace. I listened to this transmissions, astounded, trying to figure out the meaning of the numbers, the station, the purpose. None of us, curious young Spooks had any good idea, and just hoped, that one time we will hear the station identification, or so. These transmissions went on and on, day after day, not like a message or telegram, rather continuously. Then one day the station disappeared, and never came back again. We were abandoned.

It took an other 20 years to hear about this early numbers station once more. When I mentioned this enigmatic transmissions to a friend of mine, he laughed. And he told me this story: in those early days there was a shortwave radio link between one of the fighter command posts and a radar station. The coordinates were read off from the indicator screen of the radar and dictated to the command post, where the "plotters" plotted the positions of the aircrafts onto a huge glass panel. This radio link worked well until the night, when (in lack of any aircraft in the sector) one of the radar operators decided to fill in his buddies - in explicit detailed, graphic terms - with the events of his last rendez-vous with a gorgeous brunette (name, body details, etc. of the dear were also duly given...). Needless to say, the transmitter and mike remained keyed during his account. The station became very popular in a second.

Someone has alarmed the military. You know, they notoriously dislike being a (such) celebrity, and next day the frequency was changed (radar op and radio officer, too). The radio ceased to bring the mystery of the string of numbers into our kitchen. We kids, were left out from the secrets of the wireless world (except some left-over static). However, the patient monitoring ears in (and around) the city were well rewarded with a sexy story that night.

Since those early days, when I turn the dial of the old radio to the very end of the MW band and listen to the static, I still hope that one time, the numbers station will come back again, with a piece of my childhood. With an other tale, perhaps.

LoLo, Spooks.

* CHINESE NUMBERS STATIONS *

There are quite a lot of Chinese numbers stations active. Most, if not all, probably belong to the People's Liberation Army or related services. I like to thank our friends Igor Buhtiyarov from Russia and Hideharu Torii from Japan for their help.

Voice stations

- Reader/language: YL/Chinese (both live and recorded)
- Mode: AM; Guangzhou also uses 110bd/700Hz RTTY
- The numbers in the header and the messages are pronounced differently
- Id's: "Beijing hujiao" (Beijing calling)
"Guangzhou hujiao" (Guangzhou calling)
"156" and other 3-figure id's

Morse stations

- Mode: A2A
- Cut numbers: AU34567DNT
Remark: there are no cut numbers in the header
- Id's: BCN, BKG, BCN, BSQ
+ tactical callsigns like PUQ, FMC1
- Notes: BKG is Beijing's sister station
BCN is Guangzhou's sister station

Callsigns:

* VOICE STATIONS *

::: FRENCH WOMAN [V23]

Brian Martlew discovered a new station that uses the same format as the Russian Man family. She was only on the air for a week. I wonder what the purpose was. Was this a live training for a new agent in a French speaking country or a special mission? Has anyone in a French speaking country heard of anything that could be related to this station? Brian's RealAudio file can be downloaded from the N&O home page at <http://home.luna.nl/~ary>

The station used the following schedules:

0900 UTC, Mo, We, Fr - 15840 kHz

0900 UTC, Tu, Th, Sa - 10635 kHz

1900 UTC, Mo, We, Fr - 11060 kHz

1900 UTC, Tu, Th, Sa - 10635 kHz

Mode : AM

Operator : YL

Language : French

Id's : 362

::: PIP [XX]

Rimantas copied another voice transmission from 'the pip'

July 25, 22:16 UTC, Enigma "XX", 3757 kHz, YL voice message in Russian:

"For: 796, 610, 604, 461, 661, 206. How can you read me? Reception."
Repeated 4 times. It seems that 22:10-22:20 UTC is a standard daily message time.

Rimantas, I think that in this context 'over' is a better translation for 'priyom' than 'reception'. Just like the NATO military uses 'over' at the end of transmissions, 'priyom' is used the same way.

::: CZECH STATION

The new Czech station is still alive and kicking while I am writing this. Odd freqs and transmission times. I wonder if it could be some sort of cadets training station. Info wanted!

Frequencies: 1122 kHz and 2136 kHz

Reader/language: YL / Czech

Schedules: Saturday and Sunday only

2136 kHz - 0700-0705 UTC

1122 kHz - various times at h+10 and h+40

Format: 9 tones callup (could this be a selcal system???)
followed by message no's 20-29, 50-59 etc.

Igor Buhtiyarov copied a lot of new freqs and id's of station M53/M40. The id sometimes consist of 2 or 4 numbers. Igor did not always write down the figures after the dot. He says that the station most probably transmits from North Korea. Very nice catches Igor!

::: A2A [M63]

"A2A" is still on 5807 and 6763 at 0500 UTC. The out-stations are replying on 4753 kHz.

::: M78

The station that Guy found a couple of months ago changed its freq from 8100 to 8140 kHz. Transmission times are still from 0700-1400 UTC on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. It transmits for 15 minutes, the tones are much deeper than XPH. So far the transmissions mainly consist of single 5 figure groups 00000 to 99999. They also send RY test messages without an id in 75bd RTTY.

★ RUSSIAN MAN SCHEDULES ★

Mike Chace sent me a list of Russian Man freqs. Some time ago Hans-Friedrich used a number of old frequencies to derive a new schedule and it worked out. So, Hans-Friedrich and everyone else who wants to look for clues, here is Mike's list. Let me know if you can find next month's schedule using the old ones. Thanks for the huge list, Mike.
